What to Expect From a Consult

We've helped private and corporate clients all over Ireland and abroad (including the UK, US, and Australia) plan their taxes and resolve unnecessary tax worries. Before joining our network of success stories, here's what to expect from our tax consults:

How long will my consultation last?

We offer a range of consultation times to suit the complexity of your query, as well as your availability and budget. View our consultation options.

How are your meetings conducted?

All of our meetings are carried out remotely. This includes the option of a phone call or a virtual meeting at a time that's convenient for you.

Can I book more than one consultation?

We understand that not all tax matters can be resolved in just one session. For broad or niche topics, we can schedule as many sessions as you need. (Email grainne@expattaxes.ie to discuss custom packages)

How much do your consultations cost?

The cost of your consultation will depend on the topic we're covering. We offer everything from 30-minute phone consultations to longer or more specialised sessions.

What information will I need to provide?

To ensure you get the most out of your tax consultation, we may request that you fill in our Tax questionnaire prior to our meeting. We may also need to verify your identity (for the purpose of complying with anti-money laundering legislation). Details of this will be communicated to you before your session.

Examples of the topics we cover:

- Registering with Irish tax authorities
- Tax return & compliance
- Tax efficiency & entitlements
- Global mobility (corporate)
- Remote working/Ordinary residency
- Double-taxation agreements & remittance basis of tax
- Capital Gains Tax
- Employers/Employees relocating to or from Ireland
- Tax planning strategies
